AN EASY FORTUNE FOR THE VICTOR .- Mr. P. T. Barnum dispatched a special messenger yesterday to England, by the Arabia, to have an interview with the winner of the great fight, and offer that illustrions victor a large sum to exhibit himself, with the champion's belt and other trophies, for a few weeks, at the Museum. The agent is authorized to offer a price for a short cogagement of a few weeks that would astonish even the operatic stars. Go it, Sayers! Heenau, pitch in ! To the victor belongs the small changeadmission twenty-five cents.

Y. Daniel Dana jr., publisher." This 's a very handsome musical work of 156 pages, and differs from any other in so far as it is the only one which is , written with an artistic view for the requirement of a , verial choir us well as the (so-called) singing of con, negations. Beside some standard old tunes, there are arrangements first made from the works of Weber, h Vendelssohn, Schuman, and Wagner, and harmonies fre un the competent pen of Mr. Hopkins himself. We con unend this work to notice, which is more than we can . to for the " Tone-Book of the Protestant Episcopal Church," which shows that want of supervision which only a scienside hand can afford.

In lowering the platform, the pillars move from a vertical to a nearly horizontal position. When the vessel is properly fastened in its place, the hydraulic difting power, worked by steam, is applied, and the pillars are raised to a vertical position again, bringing the platform with the vessel above the surface of the water. In lowering, the movement is completely under the control of the operator, who, with one hand, can increase, diminish, or altogether check its motion at pleasure .... BROOMLYN HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY .- The Spring Floral Exhibition of this society commenced yesterday at the Brooklyn Atheneum. There was an exceed ingly brilliant display of flowers of all kinds, pleasing to the eye and of rapturous fragrance. The exhibition comprised a greater variety of choice specimens than usual, and they were arranged with much taste. But we never saw the beautiful gifts of Nature so terribly abused as these were. Gorgeous flowers, of all c:lors the sight of which would have roused the slumbering muse in a poet's bosom, whose fragrance would have driven Phalon crazy, were called by the most heathen ish names that could possibly be invented. The exhibiters all seemed to vie with each other in the hideous christening of their pet offerings. As we are neither Greek nor a Hottentot we won't attempt to repest hem. Why is it that such floral treasures cannot be called by names which any good Christian can pronounce? If there is any one thing in Nature on which all men, women, and children are unanimous it is an unbounded love for flowers. As they are now christened none but botanists can converse of their many enuties—the admiring crowd can only gaze in speech less rapture, and sigh for a name by which to call their charmer. So the many ladies and gentlemen who were present last evening wandered among the fragrant lossoms, so "rich and rare," also expensive, inhaling the delicious perfume, and admiring in silence. A small band of musicians in the gallery assisted materially in the enlivening scene. The exhibition will be continued two days more.

AN INTERESTING WILL CASE .- A hearing tool place yesterday, before the Surrogate of Kings County, in relation to the last will and testament of William J. Potts, deceased. The following is a brief history of the cause of the will being contested: Mr. Potts came to this country from the north of Ireland about thirty years ago, and established his residence in the City of Brocklyn, where he dwelt, and conducted business (in various pursuits) up to the period of his death, which occurred very suddenly a few weeks since. He accumulated property said to be now worth upward of $120,000, the whole of which he bequeathed, by a will purporting to be executed on the let day of July, 1854, to his youngest daughter, now about seventeen years of age. He was a widower at the time of making this will and had only two daughters, the eldest of whom (a Mrs. Doherty, residing at New-Haven) he entirely cut off and ignored in his testamentary decree, in consequence, it is alleged, of her having married contrary to his wishes and without his consent. It is, however, represented that he objected to this alliance because she espoused a Roman Catholic, he (Potts) being religiously of the Protestant faith. The will is now contested upon various grounds, among which the following presented by Mr. Lomas, one of the attor-Potts, deceased. The following is a brief history of because she espoused a Roman Cathone, he Fortes being religiously of the Protestant faith. The will is now contested upon various grounds, among which the following, presented by Mr. Lomas, one of the attorneys and proctors for Mrs. Doherty, may be regarded as the most formdible:

First: That it is arbitrarily constars and unjust, and sitterly inconsistent and at variance with the generally kind and affectionate character and disposition of the testator, and therefore the print facile evidence that he was under improper and made in lineances, and in in unit state of mind, at the time of its a liqued execution.

Second: That, agreeably to the caveat already filed in thi Gourt, there are reasons for believing that Wm. J. Fotts executed a will at least two years subsequent to that now exhibited parporting to be dated on the lat day of July, 1854.

Third: That thortly prior to the domine of said Potts, he expressed a desire to make a provision, by written bequest, for his closed daughter, the contentant in this case, but was arbitraril extended from as doing by persons then in attendance upout on, which presons, either by themselves, or through their agency and direction, removed from the house of the decease his deck and private papers several hours before the occurrons of this death, and reloaded all access to him of friends whom heapreased a dears to see.

Forth: That there are cogent reasons for believing, and the proctors of the concentant are loformed, that one of the executors must be in the document alleged to be the last will and testament of Won. J. Potts, document alleged to be the last will and testament of Won. J. Potts, document alleged to be excutaily interested, both directly and remotely. In the bequests therein contained, and up to the period of the death of the alleged testator exercised over the mind and sots of the deceased an improper control for the expises purpose of securing for his youngest daughter the entire property and effects, to the exclusion of the adults and legitimals expectations of his oldest child.

Fifth and lessig: That the deceased, as frequent occasions, expressed an intention and desire to make provision by will for the contextant in this case, but was restrained from so doing by the function that operated upon the mind to an extent that readered him upon the subject of his cidest daughter's marriage menoconalize and instance.

BURNING OF THE SHIP JACOB A. WES-TERVELT.

The ship Jacob A. Westervelt, Captain Williams selonging to H. L. Rich & Co.'s line of Liverpoo packets, took fire yesterday, about 3 p. m., while lying at anchor in the North River, outward bound. The fire originated in the between decks, aft, caused by the npecting of a lamp. The carpenter, it appears, had gone below, in company with a boy, for the purpose of procuring stores for the steerage passengers, of whom there were 18, and while so doing the boy let the lamp fall, which broke, and set fire to the cotton stowed near hall, which broke, and set the smoke was so dense as to dely the exertions of the men sent below to extin

The ship was grounded, head to the wind, which caused the fire to work forward slowly.

The New-York Conference numbers 239 members, 165 of whom answered to their names at the calling of the roll. Rev. Benjamin Griffin was elected Secretary, with Revs. T. Ferguson and P. It was stated that the members of St. Paul's Church would be gratified if a prayer-meeting were to be held every morning, before the opening of the Conference. On motion, such a meeting was agreed to, and it was voted that it should commence in the Vestry each morning, at 7½ o'clock, during the continuance of the session.

The Conference was then briefly addressed by the Presiding Bishop, the Rev. Dr. Scott. He said that he appeared before the brethren of this Conference for the first time, as their presiding officer. He would only say that his heart was fixed as ever, in the determination to do the best he could, and he called for the assistance of their prayers. He was very glad they had appointed the prayer-meeting for every morning at 7½ o'clock, and hoped he should not be pained, as he had been at other Conferences, by beholding empty benches at that hour. He appealed to every brother present to be there at the appointed time. It was probable that matters of very great moment would be called up at this Conference, and he trusted that what ever discussions might arise, orearren would never for one moment forget that they were brethren, but would let brotherly love continue.

The examination of the characters of the preachers in the districts composing the New-York Conference was

At 7:15 the mizzenmast fell over the stern. The passengers, who were landed at Pier No. 1 East River, were provided with accommodations at No. 2 Front street, at the expense of the owners of the ship. The crews of the Brazilian corvette, the cutter McLellan, and Harbor Police, are entitled to the greatest credit for their exertions. They swarmed on the rigging and on the yards of the ship, unbent the sails, and sent them down on deck ship-shape, and as orderly as if working by the day. The Croton water boat steamer was early alongside, and did good service, until driven away by the flames. At 9 p. m. the ship was yet burning flercely. Her stern had burnt ont, her mizzenmast was gone, and from the immense body of fire below her mainmast must also soon go, and the general belief was, that she would be a total toss.

SUPREME COURT-CIRCUIT-APRIL 11.-Before Judge BALCOM.
THE DISTRICT COURT CLERKS.

The Papple ex rel. Samuel Osgood agt. F. Reers.
In this case, reported yesterday, the Court directed the Jury to find a verdict, pro forma, for the defendant. This sustains the defendant in his claims to the presention of the office. James T. Brady for the relator; D. D. Field for the re-spot dest.

The Police cases were postponed till next Friday.

The Bank of the State of Georgia agt. Robert Lewin.

This was an action on a bill of exchange tried before Justice Balcon, without a Jury, on the 5th inst, and argued by J. W. Edmends for plaintiff, and A. W. Bradford for descriptions.

fore Justice Balcom, without a Jury, on the Sha max, and arrived by J. W. Edmends for plaintiff, and A. W. Bradford for defendant.

The Judge to-day rendered the following decision:
The case is simply this: On the éth day of November, 1257, the defendant was liable, as acceptor of a bill of exchange make by one Lamar, at Saxannah, in the State of Georgia, to pay the plain iff in this city the sum of $10,340 ?0. The plaintiff is a opporation located in the State of Georgia. At the time above mentioned the said bill was in the persension of a bank in this city for callection. In order to pay the above-mentioned indebt-educas, the defendant produced said Lamar to draw the bill of exchange in suit, dated savannah, November 6, 1857, for $10,497 ?7 on the defendant, payable thirty-four days from the 8th of that month—which bill the plaintiff discounted in Georgia, and with the avails thereof discharged said indebtedness in this city. The interest on the bill of November 6, for thirty-seven days, was $74 40. The difference between the face of that bill and the amount of said indebtedness was $156 67. By deducting the sicressid interest from such difference, it leaves $22 8, which the plaintiff recrived as exchange between Georgia and this city. The plaintiff sent the bill of November 6 to this city, where the defendant accepted it. But he did not pay it when it become due. He was sund on it, and set up the defence of usury. I am of the opinion in the validity of the bill of exchange in question should be determined by the laws of the State of Georgia. By those laws, the rate of interest is fixed at 7 per cent. If the borrower agrees to pay a guater rate, he is not bound to pay any; but he is liable to refund the principal sum borrowed. If, therefore, the bill of exchange in question were tained with usury, the plaintiff would be extituded to resoure $10,497 20. But I amo of the opinion it is not tainted with usury, and is therefore valid. The amount now due on the bill is $12,198 37, and the plaintiff is entitled to j

Black ordered them out of it e shop Hartfelder took up a bottle and threw it at Black, and the others took his part. They were subsequently arrested and committed on the charge.

John Coulan, poster in the jewelry establishment of Mr. Jenes, corner of John street and Broadway was tried on the charge of stealing some small articles of jewelry which were found in his house, but which he had bought, according to the testimony of reveral witnesses, from a peddier, as "broken jewelry."
